Launch of vibrant summertime feeling products with the story of

- SUN KISSED SKIN

Sunlight is an indispensable source of health, good mood and energy and triggers a number of important processes in the body. The release of beta-endorphins favours a positive mood and the synthesis of vitamin D is important for our bone health. Sunlight is also involved in the production of melanin, which protects our skin from damaging UV rays and free radicals. A skincare range that acts like sun on the skin? That's possible! →

Extract from the indigo plant

The plant extract is obtained from the indigo plant persicaria tinctoria. By increasing the production of the body's own melanin and feel-good molecules (beta-endorphin, vitamin D and oxytocin), the botanical active ingredient mimics all the good properties of the sun. botanical active ingredient mimics all the good properties of the sun, giving the skin a healthy glow and lifting the mood at the same time. Positive emotions are generated. By stimulating melanin production, a darker phototype can be achieved within 7 days. The production of melanin is stimulated even without sun exposure and also works in combination with applied sun protection filters.
